

Russell James Ramsland, Jr.

Russell is an international businessman from West Texas whose ventures have taken him all over the U.S., the Middle East, the South Pacific, Japan and Europe for projects involving oil & gas exploration, advanced digital convergence communications, very advanced semi-conductor materials, finance, medical devices and commercial real estate. Mr. Ramsland co-founded the popular Texas Embassy Cantina near the former Republic of Texas Legation building in London, England where it operated for 18 years.

In 2017 he co-founded Allied Security Operations Group in Addison, Texas that specializes in cyber security, cyber investigations, OSINT and physical security. It serves both private and government concerns with worldwide capabilities. The cyber team has conducted a 2 year investigation into the voting system in the U.S. and Russ has become the corporate spokesman for the team's findings. His videos on election fraud have been reproduced widely on news and social media platforms.

He also serves on three corporate boards. His experience has provided him with a broad range of managerial and organizational opportunities from running laboratories to building technical and developmental teams to managing employees, clients and contractors.

He has unique government experience from serving on Capitol Hill for Chairman George Mahon to working with the Reagan White House, NASA and MIT to develop a new generation of III-V semi-conductor materials on the U.S. Space Shuttle for SDI. The results supported United States' efforts to attain and maintain over-match in both space exploration and defense. He was a candidate in the 2015 Republican Party Primary for the 32nd U.S. Congressional District and now does a series of educational lectures at various schools as well as religious, civic and political organizations. He served on the U.S. Office of Technology Space Law Task Force as well as the U.S. Department of Transportation's Commercial Space Transportation Advisory Committee (COMSTAC). He has been a guest lecturer at Harvard University and the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

He lives in Dallas and is a graduate of Duke University with a Bachelor of Arts degree in Political Science and holds an MBA from the Harvard Business School.
